Cookie Policy

1. Consent

"It's the 21st Century so obviously cookies are a thing and we too use Cookies on this site to offer a better user experience. You can find out more within the Cookie Policy and set your preferences within the Cookie Settings."

2. Our Website

Ambassadeurs Commerce Limited, t/a Essential Experiences, Essential Lifestyle and Essential Travel Management uses cookies on its websites (the "Website"). This Cookie Policy explains what cookies are, how we use them, your choices regarding cookies and further information about them.

3. What are Cookies?

Cookies are small text files containing small amounts of information which are sent to and stored on your computer, smartphone, or other device when you access a website. Cookies are then sent back to the originating website on each subsequent visit or to another website that recognises that cookie. Cookies are useful because they allow a website to recognise a user's device.

4. Use of cookies on the website

Cookies are used on the Website for several reasons. This includes, but is not limited to, the following:

- to allow users to log on to their account.
- to allow users to choose log-in preferences.
- to monitor and collect information about transactions placed on the Website; and
- for fraud prevention purposes and generally to safeguard privacy.

Cookies are generally used to improve and enhance the user experience. Some of the cookies we use are essential for the Website to operate.

Our use of Cookies on our website can fall into the following categories:

Session Management / Necessary: these cookies are essential to enable use of the Website, they manage session information and enable users to navigate through the Website.

Functionality: these cookies store information which enables us to remember user preferences e.g. preferred language, sort types, media settings. They are also used to improve users' experience by, for example, stopping users from being shown the same message twice.

Fraud Prevention: these cookies store information which helps us stop fraudulent use of the Website.

Tracking: these cookies enable us to store information about how users landed on the Website. We need to record this so that we can appropriately pay our Affiliates and manage services.

Analysis: these cookies allow us to recognise and count the number of users and to see how users move around our Website when they are using it. This helps us to improve the way the Website works, for example, by ensuring that users are finding what they are looking for easily and to deliver adverts and information which are more relevant to each user and their interests and to monitor the effectiveness of such adverts and information.

Targeting and advertising cookies: these cookies are designed to gather information from you on your device to display advertisements to you generally and based on relevant topics that interest you.

We may, from time to time, use carefully selected third party tracking and/or analytical cookies to assist in improving the Website and our services for users.

Where links are provided on the Website to third party websites it is important to remember that those websites will have their own cookies and privacy policies which will govern any information you may submit. If you decide to use any linked third-party websites, please read their cookies and privacy policies before doing so.

Below is a full list of the cookies in use, their purpose and for how long your information is retained.
